Last month of the Zoran Music exhibition

It is still possible to visit the exhibit dedicated to the Italian-Slovenian artist Zoran Music (1909-2005) until the 1st of July.

A last chance to capture the expression of an extraordinary artist and admire his most evocative themes through 68 works: from the lively Venetian watercolours, the Dalmatian themes and the Colts, reminiscent of the artist's childhood; to the very important series Nous ne sommes pas les derniers (We are not the last) created in the Seventies and in which Music expresses his dramatic experience in the concentration camp of Dachau. The portraits and the self-portraits follow and, as an appendix to the itinerary, there is a section dedicated to the landscapes and to the Plant patterns.

Future projects

The Braglia Foundation is working on a new exhibition that will be opening in autumn: a magical tour of Italian and international art of the XX century.

Over a hundred pieces exhibited –paintings, drawings and sculptures- which will give the opportunity to get closer to the most significant representatives of the past century through the intimate and personal view of two collectors: Gabriele and Anna Braglia.

Save the date

The exhibition Pot-pourri. From Picasso to Valdés. The Braglia Collection will open to the public on the 28th of September.

Pablo Picasso, Nu et deux personages, 1969, pencil on paper.
